

Rogério Souza is Full Professor and Head of the Pulmonary Circulation Program at the Pulmonary Department of the University of São Paulo Medical School, Brazil. Professor Souza received both his MD and PhD from the University of São Paulo, before moving to the University of Paris as an invited Professor to continue his postdoctoral research. He has served as Secretary and Chair of the Pulmonary Circulation Group of the European Respiratory Society. Professor Souza was also member or chair of the last three World Symposia on Pulmonary Hypertension. In 2010, Professor Souza received the Pulmonary Hypertension Award from the European Respiratory Society. Professor Souza's research interests include schistosomiasis, hemodynamics and non-invasive markers of disease severity in pulmonary hypertension.